

Just Listen Bounty Hunt

In this worksheet, you'll be sent on missions to test your listening skills. The checklist below will determine whether you've completed all the items necessary to complete this mission.

*This bounty hunt is suitable for those already living in their target language's country.

*For those who are not currently in their target language's country, keep this list in mind for when you travel to that country. Maybe it's time to plan your next trip!?

Basic Missions

Mission 1:

Listen to 5 minutes of conversation at a local cafe or restaurant.

Mission 2:

Go to a park nearby and listen out for the action verbs: 'play', 'run', 'walk', 'exercise', 'go'. These are words that you would commonly hear in that kind of environment, see if you can find any of these.

Mission 3:

Stand in a line of some sort and listen for casual conversation. When you get to the front of the line pay attention for any special words that the cashier or line attendant might use.

Mission 4:

Go to the movies and find a seat near a family or friend group. Until the movie starts, try and identify six everyday topics being discussed among the groups.

Mission 5: CHALLENGE LEVEL

Attend a local cultural festival and listen out for topics such as traditions, arts, dance, and music. Having carefully listened to these topics being discussed amongst the crowds you can then attempt to have a five-minute conversation with at least 2 strangers in your target language.

Bonus Missions

These bonus missions are entirely up to you but they are certainly worthwhile:

Mission 6:

Attend an auction at a bidding house and listen for the numbers as they fly out of people's mouths at lightning speed.

Mission 7:

Go to a bar (preferably a rowdy) one and try to keep track of the shifting topics (this is harder than it seems, trust me, I know.)

Mission 8:

Find a shopping street near you and listen out for people bargaining their way to a deal.

*Disclaimer: These missions should be done passively. Try to avoid being a nuisance to other people so you don't end up eavesdropping (that is something we want to avoid altogether.)

REWARD

If you've completed all these missions, and want a reward from the L-Lingo team, send us a short video of your experience with these missions.
